EMERGENCY MEDICAL TRAINING

EMT TRAINING PROGRAM 2018 Spring Night Class

This is the entry level of prehospital emergency medical provider in the United States. EMTs are employed in a variety of industries. EMTs are trained to provide rapid in-field treatment and transport to higher medical providers. EMTs work in conjunction with other medical providers such as paramedics, nurses, and physicians, as well as with other EMTs. When operating in the prehospital environment, their actions are governed by protocols and procedures set by their system's physician medical director
